

Brands are stories.

These stories help define our individually while connecting us to a larger community. While the majority of the brand's I've partnered with are enterprise-level, some of the work I am most proud of is the design I do for my own community. I care for these groups, I rarely get to share this work, and like my professional work, I want to use what I know to help my community to their truest story.

This has included my block,¹ the baseball team I play on,^{2} the coffee shop I frequent,^{3†}
my favorite bar⁴ (RIP), and our local event space.⁵*

